The ball has not yet been located. An attempt to do so this morning failed. The chances are altogether in tavor of his recovery unless blood poisoning should set in, and of that so far there are no symptoms. The shot struck him on the right cheek, near the eye, and ranged downward. The ball is probably buried in a bone. PHILADELPHIA, March 1 .- Among the many improvements the Pennsyl vania Railroad Company contemplate on their New York line is the elevation of their tracks in Jersey City, where a handsome station is to be constructed and the passengers landed on the second floor. Without descending to the ground level, they will proceed directly to the ferries. The latter will be re-constructed or replaced with new boats, which will be double decked. On the New York side of the river passengers will be landed on the upper floor of the ferry house on the same level as the bridge spanning West street, which has been provided for.

All these improvements have already been arranged for, and within two years at the outside will be realities. Several schemes are now being pushed for the shortening of the route to New York for fast trains. For some time past the completion of a through fourline route from Philadelphia to Jersey City has been proceeding, and there is now only a short space in the neighbor-hood of Elizabeth where there are fewer tracks than four. It is said that when the work is finished the time between the termini will be not more than ninety minutes, while the ferry trips will be accelerated by the construction of new Horses and Cows, Houses and Trees Sport of the Wind. BIHMINGHAM, ALA., March 1 .- A special from Talladega, Ala., gives an account of a most terrible storm which passed over that place vesterday morning. It made a path about 100 yards wide, and death and destruction marked its entire course. Fortunately it did not pass through a thickly populated part of the town, but the scene along its path beggars description. Houses were blown down and the boards, and even the beams and rafters, carried for a considerable distance. Trees were snapped off like pipe-stems, or torn from the ground by the roots. Cows, horses, and other domes-tic animals were killed, and a number of people living in the houses blown down were seriously injured, but none fatally. The storm was in a line with Cramer Wailla and the old Estell home-stead, both well-known residences.

Further particulars cannot be learned. The town of Carthage, Miss., was yesterday partially destroyed by a tor-nado. The court-house was first struck, and the cupela, rooting and chimneys carried away. Several residences were demolished, including that of C. P. Brennan. The Brennan family, consisting of husband, wife and four children. were buried in the debris. All were severely wounded, one of the children having since died of its injuries.

THE FEATHERSTONE-CATE ELEC-TION CASE TAKEN UP.

Speaker Reed Has to Vote to tilve His Party a Majority-Bill for an Assistant Secretary of War Passed. Other Congressional Matters, pension bills this morning, after which, it is understood, Mr. Houk Tennessie will call Featherstone - Cate contested election case from Arkansas. The Republicans do not expect a quo-rum of their own members, and seem utterly indifferent as to whether they have such a quorum or not. General Grosvenor of Ohio, says that if the Democrats try to get a case in the courts, as they have threatened to do, they will be laughed at. That is the feeling generally on the Republican side. They will proceed to count the silent quorum, under the rules, and laugh at any attempt of their opponents to call the courts to their aid. The House passed bill 6099, to increase the pension of Elmer A. Snow of crease the pension of Elmer A. Snow of M Troop, Third United States Cavalry, for loss of both hands, from $72 to $100. Also House bill 4495, to increase the pension of Thomas Riley of L Troop, Seventh United States Cavalry, from $72 to $100.

The House then took up Senate bill 1259, to create the office of Assistant Secretary of War at a salary of $4,500.

Passed by a vote of 126 to 100. During announcement of the vote Mr. Burrows said he had voted on another's name inadvertently, and also when his own name was called. One vote, be thought, was enough. The record was accord-ingly corrected.

Representative Houk called up the Featherstone-Cate contested election case from the First Arkansas District. Mr. Crisp of Georgia desired him to postpone it until next week. Mr. Houk declared that sufficient unto the day was the evil thereof: that he had postponed the case from day to day and would not postpone it any longer. His resolution that Featherstone was entitled to his sent was then read. Mr. Crisp raised the question of consideration. A division being called for, the Speaker announced that it stood 97 to 97, and the Speaker voting in the affirmative made 98. This result created much laughter, amid which Mr. Crisp called for the yeas and nays, which were ordered.

The vote was in the affirmative and the case was taken up and Mr. Haugan of Wiscensin addressed the House in

Postmaster-General Wanamaker Tells What He Knows of Him,

The civil service investigation by the House committee was resumed this morning at 10:30, Chairman Lehlbach in the chair. The usual dramatis persome was in the dingy room, and the examination of the witnesses developed nothing of a very startling character. Postmaster-General Wanamaker was the principal witness, and his examina tion was as to Commissioner Roosevelt's to a clerkship in the Postoffice Department, Mr. Wana-maker was questioned minutely, but nothing of importance beyond what has already been made public was devel-oped. Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt was also put on the stand and asked a great many question about his protege's appointment. He said that it was not that Mr. Shidy was so bad that he recommended his appointment. Mr. Shidy, he said, was not one of those actively engaged in falsifying the records, but he was the one who told the Commission of the crooked work others were engaged in. The youngest of the Commissioners, emphasized the statement that it was because he thought Mr. Shidy had been unfairly treated. Those actively engaged in the wrong doing, he said, were not dismissed, and still held their positions while Mr. Shidy's head was cut off. It was to correct the injustice that he recommended Mr. Shidy's ap-pointment to General Wanamaker. Postmaster General Wanamaker when he was put on the stand, confirmed what Mr. Roosevelt had said, and said that he had agreed with Mr. Roosevelt's views of the matter. He had only ap-pointed Mr. Shidy, however, after havpointed sir, Saidy, however, after having read all the reports on the case, very carefully. The London union has also been succossful in a way which was doubtless not anticipated by them; that is, in causing the abandonment of the project under consideration of constructing a new dock near the Victoria docks, cap well supplied, with generally firm rates, but no indication of large available sur-plus for shipments hither. The large number of English horses exported in 1889 proves that the demand for them abroad is unabated. Over 14,000 were sent away from the country last years, and fears having been expressed that the English stock is in danger of deterioration by the loss of its best blood the Erv. assures its fellow countrymen of a fact which may be interesting to buyers, that, although the confiding foreigners pay for the best, they by no means get the best.
